

Fun Activities I Did Camping

By Vincent Chang, 8 years old

There is lot of different things I did when I went camping. My friend Nicole, Auntie Liz, sometimes my mom and dad, and I played games in the car and games outside.

Some games inside were “connect the dots” and “don’t use a letter in a word when we ask and answer questions”. The outside games made me hot, but the car games did not.

One thing I played was kickball. It was really fun, but there was mud at third base. So when I got to third base, I got dirty. We had teams of two in kickball. And my team had young people and the other team had older people. We got so tired. We had to run to get the ball. And also we had to run to get to the bases. My team lost, but we still had fun.

Another game we played was “down and up cups”. There were two teams. My team was called the down team. And we had to put the cups that were up, down. And the other team was called the up team. And they were supposed to turn the cups that were down, up. So when we started, my team was running and turning the cups down. And my team won.

Finally, when I went hiking, I had to list down seven things I saw on the trail. Then I had to pick five of those seven words. So when I walked, I saw lots of different things and then I saw a sign that said Midway Crevasse. I learned what crevasse meant because I walked through a gap between two rocks. And then I hiked for many miles.

Camping was a lot of fun.
